NEWHALL, CALIFORNIA

Newhall, with a population in 1948 of 3500 is located on San Fernando Road $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of Highway No. 6, and 2 miles east of U. S. Highway No. 99, in Soledad Township, 4 North, Range 16 West, 31 miles north of Los Angeles, California.

Elevation according to U.S. Goedetic Survey, is 1270 ft.

The town of Newhall was begun with the opening of the Railroad Station on October 28, 1876, at what is now the site of Saugus, but then known as Newhall.

The first building erected was the depot, the lumber arriving by rail. Its location was on the west side of the track, at a point approximately even with the present school house, 21511 Sierra Highway.

Five other buildings followed the erection of the depot. One, the section house. Another the Compton General Store, and a third, the Compton residence, were built with new materials brought in by the railroad. The site of the store was near the present Kellogg Ranch, a few doors north of the schoolhouse.

Experimenting two dry years in which the water level fell greatly, it was deemed advisable to move the townsite from its original location to the present one, where water would be available with a spring as its source.

Thereupon, on January 15, 1878, the depot was dismantled, moved to its present site at the Railroad and Market Street, Newhall and rebuilt by February 15, 1878.

The other buildings were likewise torn down and moved to their new sites. The street paralleling the railroad on the west side of the tracks was, and is, known as Railroad Avenue, and was at that time, the main street.

Compton's Store rose anew on this street, at 8th street.

The sites for both the Protestant and Catholic churches were donated by Mr. N. M. Newhall.

In 1878, the Southern Hotel was erected by Mr. H. M. Newhall at the southwest corner of Railroad and Market Streets, with an entire block devoted to its use.

At the rear of the hotel, at the corner of Market and Spruce Streets, was located the blacksmith shop, operated by a Mr. Smith, in conjunction with the livery stable, the latter located at the approximate junction of Spruce Street and Newhall Avenue.

Dry wheat farming was carried on plentifully in these parts, a warehouse for grain storage was erected by Mr. Newhall next to the railroad, across Market Street to the south, about 1880. Wagons drawn by six teams hauled the sacked grain from the fields.

Pacific Coast Oil Co. erected their warehouse and office north of the depot in 1882.

The same year, 1882, Mr. Newhall built a grocery store on the northwest corner of Railroad and Market Streets, and thereafter the space previously used in the hotel for a grocery became a bar and billiard room, still maintaining a good repute.

Mr. John T. Gifford, line rider for the Western Union, with its one wire in 1871, patrolling territory between Los Angeles and Elizabeth Lake, also to Camulos, became the first depot agent. His tasks, due to the heavy shipping of oil, grain and honey, eventually necessitated an assistant.

Mrs. Sarah Gifford, his wife, was the first woman resident of the town, and their daughter is the present Mrs. Mabel Gifford Taylor. Quarters in the depot, the family moved to their own home, built on the northeast corner of Seventh and Pine Streets, on April 1884, where the dauhgter still resides. This home boasted the first lawn in town.

GOLD

"—Gold, gold in California!" Those magic words are the keynote of this first centennial year. When the eyes of James W. Marshall caught the reflection of a tiny speck of gold in the tail race of Sutter's Mill on January 24, 1848, a chain of events was set in motion which changed the course of history, influenced the lives of tens of millions, and converted a wilderness into an empire.

Marshall's flake from Sutter's Mill was the signal for one of the most spontaneous and colorful migrations recorded in history or presented in pageantry This speck of gold gave the impulse to those who crossed the plains in covered wagons, came 'round the horn, and across the fever-infested isthmus; then came the spanning of the continent by steel rails, later followed by the building of the Panama Canal.

OIL

Nature, with a lavish hand, poured wealth into the Santa Clara Valley. Not only yellow gold and rich farms were to be found in its lowlands, but also the black gold of oil remained to be pumped from the surrounding hills and canyons. At night the lighted wells now seem like jewelled ornaments against the dark bulk of the hills, and they ARE jewels in the addition of wealth and prosperity to all of the valley communities. Union Oil Co., Barnsdall, Havenstrite, Standard Oil of Calif., Gulf, Texaco, Signal, and Richfield are all located in the area.

Among the other industries flourishing here are Bermite Powder Co., Bonelli Cattle Ranch, Rodeo, and Races, Betsy Linda Stock Ranch, Newhall Land and Farming Co., Butler and Haddad, potato raisers, Newhall Ranch Supply, Castaic Brick Factory, three dairies, three grocery stores, two shoe stores, two drug stores, one 5-10-15c store, a Firestone Store, a Western Auto Store, ladies' ready-to-wear, knitting shop, theatre, department store, flower shop, funeral parlor, Bank of America, thee beauty parlors, four real estate offices, four doctors, eight filling stations, four garages, one printing office, one newspaper, numerous cafes, and the famous French Village, one jewelry store, two cleaning establishments, one oil well supply, one hardware store, one liquor store, two hotels, two furnitrue stores, one paint store, two shoe repair shops, three electric shops, one art and gift store, one pool room, one upholstery shop, and one plumbing shop, one lumber yard, one men's clothing store, one blacksmith and welding shop, one second-hand store, four trailer camps, one oil refinery, four feed stores, one hospital. As regards public utilities and government services, the So. Calif. Gas Co., Pacific Telephone Co., and Southern Calif. Edison Co. have headquarters in Newhall, and Newhall Water Co., two Forestry branches, the Calif. Highway Patrol, the Los Angeles County Sheriff's substation, and Soledad Township Justice Court as well as Western Union and American Railway Express comprise the balance of the community services available.

As to social life, five churches, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, 20-30 Club, Masonic Club, Star Club, Woman's Club, Stitchette Club, American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, V. F. W., P. T. A., Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts are represented by large memberships which make a valued contribution to the community. Of these, the Woman's Club Boasts two charter members, Mrs. Armantha Thibedeau, and Mrs. Bertha Taylor, and the P. T. A. has three charter members, Mrs. Thibedeau, Mrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Pearl Russell.

Reestablishment of a town at Saugus began with the laying of a branch line of the Southern Pacific between this point and Santa Barbara, known as the Santa Paula line.

TRANSPORTATION STAGES—Early Day

Before the establishment of the railroad in 1876, horse drawn stages operated between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, passing through this area at about Arch Street and on Newhall Avenue. A stage line was also maintained, round trip once a week, to Elizabeth Lake.

About 1915 the autombolie bus was introduced. Much of the travel to the early development of the Los Angeles Aqueduct and mines of the Mojave desert was carried by private and public bus lines through Newhall, and today service is given by the Pacific Grayhound lines and the Inland Stages, operating six schedules daily in both directions.

RAILROAD

The first passenger train of the Southern Pacific Railroad was run on Sept. 16, 1876, commencing regular and ONLY daily service between San Francisco and Los Angeles, on a schedule of 25 hours.

One passenger and one freight were run each day.

The schedule in 1940 is eight passenger and eight freight trains daily in each direction.

CLIMATE

Climate is subtropical. Freedom from fogs, cool nights. Temperatures vary from normal minimum of 55 degrees to about 100 degrees, with extremes of 15 degrees minimum to 115 degrees maximum.

Extremely low temperatures have occurred on an average of once every 10 to 12 years.

HISTORICAL SPOTS

First commercial production of oil in California in Pico Canyon 1875. First commercial oil refinery in California (1876) Pico Canyon.

Fremont Pass, commemorating the crossing of the mountains by General Fremont in 1847.

Oak of the Golden Dream in Placeretis Canyon, where gold was discovered, March 9, 1842, by Francisco Lopez, seven years before James Marshall found gold nuggets at Sutters Mill.

HISTORY OF CHURCH SINCE 1944

In July of 1944 the congregation issued a call to the Rev. John A. Christensen, of Englishtown, N. J. He came to the Community with a family of 3 children to a newly renovated Manse. Installation to the Pastorate took place the following Sep. 29th under the jurisdiction of Los Angeles Presbytery.

A war burdened congregation of 96 rallied to his evangelical ministry and so during the past 4 years, with the influx of residents to Newhall, the congregation has doubled and the Sunday School nearly trebled. Many progressive changes and equipment additions have been added to the plant, making the Church a cornerstone of Character and inspiration in Kingdom building.

Plans for enlargement are underway and a high spirit of morale and Christian outreach bid fair to make Newhall Community Church one of the leading protestant churches in the Valley.

CALIFORNIA MISSION

When we speak of the "old days" in Califorina, our thoughts naturally travel along El Camino Real in a leisurely way. It must be so, because along the Kings Highway there are twenty-one stations, or missions, roughly a day's journey apart according to the mode of travel of more than a century and a half ago. These twenty-one renowned, historic treasures of California were the work of spiritually minded men, the Sons of St. Franics. Their ambition and dream was to bring the blessings of Christianity to a new and beautiful land; to enable the Indians to prosper materially and spiritually. The leader of the group was a man whose name has become a household word in California, Father Junipero Serra.

The first foundation of his spiritual empire was laid at San Diego July 16, 1769 and is known as the Mission San Diego Alcala. There followed the famous overland journey of exploration to the Bay of Monterey, and on the shores of that beautiful portion of the Pacific the Mission of San Carlos was established on June 3, 1770. From these two beginnings nineteen other units were established, and by 1823, with the foundation of the Mission of San Francisco de Solano, the dream of the Franciscans was completed and California had its chain of twenty-one Missions.

The Mission of San Fernando Rey, almost at the end of historic Fremont Pass, is not the least importance and beauty. It was seventeenth in order of founding. On Sept. 8, 1797 Fathers Lausen and Dunetz began in the Valley, which is now known as the Valley of San Fernando, the work which had prospered so well in many other valleys of California. It prospered here too. What was best in the Indian way of life was preserved and enriched with the blessings of Christianity. There was peace and prosperity in the fields, harmony in the workshops, and joy in the hearts of the Franciscans and their Indian children. Labor and skill, learning and piety developed together. To quote Edwin Markham, "The mission regime seems to have touched upon some of the best educational and sociological thought of our time. The ideas of daily contact of superior with inferior, the ideas of community property and cooperation in labor and mental drill—all these were exemplified in the Mission life."

Such gentle ways, however, did not last. In the stormy years in politics after 1810, the Missions fared badly. Their prosperity, which was intended to better the conditions of the Indians, was too great a temptation for greedy men to whom the upheavals of the times gave temporary power. In a few years the Missions ceased to function. Neglect and erosion reduced many of them to little more than mounds of adobe. But the noble work begun by Junipero Serra and his companions had its resurrection day. The Missions were returned to the jurisdiction of the Church by decision of the Federal District Court in San Francisco and confirmed by decree of President Abraham Lincoln under date of May 31, 1862.

The Catholic Parish of Newhall, known as the Parish of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, may be considered in a sense an offshoot of San Fernando. At tirst, Mass was celebrated occasionally in private homes. Later, Mrs. George Compton and Mrs. Brophy used to prepare the old school hall at 9th and Walnut Sts. and once each month a priest came, from the old Plaza Church in Los Angeles, to say Mass there.

From 1911 to 1914 Conrad's dance hall was used as the place of worship. The dance hall occupied the site where the Cozy Court is now. Father Segranis was the priest who came from the Plaza Church at that time. In 1914 the first Catholic Church was built at Pico and Walnut Streets. Father Bergin, who was Pastor of the San Fernando Parish, took care of the spiritual needs of the Catholics in Newhall. After him came Father Rouri.

In 1923 the Oblate Fathers took over the San Fernando Parish, and rathers Siemes, O'Connell, Collins, Powers, O'Brien and Quinlaven served in turn at Newhall. The present church was built in 1939. In 1944 the Catholic Churches in Newhall and Sepulveda were administered by Father John Dillon, who was succeeded in 1945 by Father James Leheny. In 1946 the first resident priest, Father O'Malley came to Newhall. The new rectory was completed in August, 1947.

At present the men of the Holy Name Society are working on the construction of a grotto, in which a beautiful statue of the Blessed Virgin will be placed. The grotto will be between the church and the rectory and face toward Walnut St.
